Police Await Report By Chemist in Death Of Intelligence Man

The cause of the death of James S. Kronthal, Central Intelligence Agency administrative officer, will remain a mystery until police receive a report on a chemical analysis.

Mr. Kronthal, 40, was found dead yesterday morning on an upstairs bed in his Georgetown home at 1662 Thirty-second street N.W.

On the table near the bed was a handwritten note which Lt. Lawrence Hartnett said may have explained the case with the words that Mr. Kronthal was "mentally upset because of pressure connected with work."

Vial's Contents Unknown.

On the same table was an empty glass vial. Unable to determine what had been in it, Coroner A. Magruder McDonald ordered the chemical analysis, which may not be completed before next week.

Following its practice, the CIA revealed nothing of Mr. Kronthal's work there the last two or three years except that he was in an administrative capacity. His salary was more than $10,000.

He lived alone in the two-story white brick home for the last year and was little known by his neighbors.

Graduate of Yale.

Born in Deal, N. J., August 21, 1912, Mr. Kronthal was graduated from Yale University in 1934, a Phi Beta Kappa. As a freshman he was a member of the crew and the following year was runner-up in fencing competition.

Later he obtained a master's degree from Harvard University. Entering the Army as a private in 1942, he served overseas and emerged a captain four years later.

Upon his discharge, Mr. Kronthal joined the State Department.

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : MR. HARBO ✓
 FROM : D. J. PARSONS
 SUBJECT: JAMES KRONTHAL, Deceased
 CIA Employee

DATE: April 10, 1953

Dr. Magruder MacDonald, District Coroner, called on the phone and stated that District Chemist, Dr. Young, was in possession of two samples of blood which he, Dr. MacDonald, desired the FBI Laboratory to analyze for narcotics. He stated that no examination had been given the specimens. He asked that Dr. Young be permitted to speak to someone in the Laboratory concerning the case.

Dr. Young called and advised that as District Chemist, he had analyzed all of the organs of the deceased for narcotic substances with negative results, but he had not analyzed the blood specimens. He was advised that in our experience in analyzing blood specimens for narcotics, we had never been able to recover any such substances because they were absorbed by the stomach. Young stated that he was very aware of this through his 23 years of experience, but it was the Coroner's request that the FBI Laboratory analyze the blood specimens. To do so, of course, would be contrary to our policy of not testing specimens in the same scientific field in which another expert has made analyses. It was explained to Dr. Young that such analyses by the FBI Laboratory would be contrary to our existing policy, and that I would have to advise him later whether such an analysis could be made.

In view of the friendliness of Dr. Mac Donald toward the Bureau and the fact that a CIA employee is the deceased, I wish to recommend the following:

RECOMMENDATION: I recommend in view of the importance of the case and Dr. MacDonald's friendliness that an exception be made to the Bureau's policy in this instance and that we conduct the analysis requested despite the fact that we anticipate negative results.
